

10 REALLY USEFUL WEBSITES

For those with an interest in Clinical Audit and QI

1

Healthcare Quality Improvement Partnership

The home of national clinical audit with full details of NCAPOP and your Quality Account obligations. The site also provides guidance documents and relevant audit case studies.

2

University Hospitals Bristol CA Team

The clinical audit team at Bristol lead by Stuart Metcalfe have an excellent reputation. They have created a series of clinical audit guides for each stage of the CA process that are first-class.

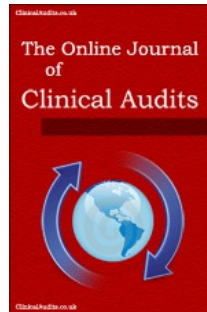

3

NHS Evidence

NHS Evidence is a free resource available to all NHS staff. The website is managed by NICE and is a treasure-trove of best practice information and guidelines that you can search to your hearts content!

4

Online Journal of Clinical Audits

The Online Journal of Clinical Audits is an excellent resource featuring a wide range of published audit projects. Although the website closed in 2016 there is still access to a wide range of great projects.

5

Institute of Healthcare Improvement

The IHI are the undisputed world leaders when it comes to measuring the quality of healthcare. Their website offers visitors access to a huge range of QI resources. IHI Open School is a superb learning portal.

6

The Health Foundation

The Health Foundation provide a wide range of free resources and materials to assist clinical audit and QI. For example, we love their short guide entitled 'Quality improvement made simple'. They have also set up the Q community to help support QI.

7

King's Fund

The King's Fund is a charity that provides a host of useful information that audit staff may find helpful. They provide excellent materials on leadership and we would encourage all to watch the lectures by Berwick and Francis.

8

Healthcare Improvement Scotland

An invaluable resource for all interested in quality improvement. We like their various improvement guides and stories. Their significant event audit materials are definitely worth a look.

9

NHS Improvement

NHS Improvement maybe a fairly new organisation but materials on their website are growing at an exponential rate! Find out about events, initiatives and resources. Take a look at their Improvement Hub and the variety of sub-sections.

10

NQICAN forum

The National Networking and Sharing Forum is an online resource established by NQICAN. It is the place where clinical audit professionals can visit to share views, ideas, experiences and resources.