

The School for Change Agents

STUFF WE LIKE

The NHS School for Change Agents seem to have been gathering momentum in recent times and yet many people working in audit and QI are unaware of the great work that they help support! And given the key role that clinical audit has in terms of identifying the need to make changes, they are an invaluable free resource to be aware of!

THE 3 KEY ELEMENTS

The Horizons team that run the School for Change Agents is small and beautiful! The Horizons team support leaders and teams to make changes. The focus is on innovation and thinking differently!

Perhaps the best attribute of the School is the educational opportunities they provide! For example, later in 2019 they are offering free regular webinars. You can also review previous webinars.

The School are well known for their amazing Sketchnotes. These use memorable illustrations to bring key change information to life! We love their various '10 things fab team/leaders' do. Inspirational stuff!

Those working in clinical audit, QI and patient safety will find the School of Change Agents a very useful resource! You can find out more via <http://horizonsnhs.com/school/>
